USING OUR STRENGTHS SERVICE

Meet the Service Team

Melinda Edwards
Aboriginal Health Worker

My name is Melinda and I am a proud Kunja woman from Bourke NSW living on Bundjalung country. I am passionate about providing diabetes care and support to our community, helping individuals manage their health and improve their quality of life. In our program, we offer personalised care plans, education on healthy living, and ongoing support to empower people to take control of their diabetes. I believe in the importance of culturally sensitive healthcare and am dedicated to making a positive impact on the lives of those I work with.

Ava Gurtler-Brown
Diabetes Educator

My name is Ava & I grew up on Whajuk Nyoongar land & am lucky enough to call Bundjalung my home now where I spend my days in nature & surfing. I became a Diabetes Educator as I wanted to provide support & education to the diabetes community after growing up with diabetes myself and wishing I had people who had diabetes themselves in my health care team. I believe every person deserves to have a healthy body so they can be present & enjoy their life.
